INTRODUCTION

The Centre for Social Studies (CSS) is an autonomous social science research institute. With multi-disciplinary research as its core activity, CSS formulates ideas, undertakes empirical studies, theorizes and disseminates knowledge through training and publications in vernacular and English languages.

Founded by late Professor I.P. Desai in 1969, CSS receives financial support from the Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR, Government of India) and the Department of Higher and Technical Education, Government of Gujarat. Besides, CSS also mobilises funds from other government departments and institutions.

The Centre's faculty, though small in number, represents a variety of disciplines including sociology, history, economics, and statistics. With an emphasis on empirical research and Gujarat as its core research region, the Centre also undertakes studies related to other parts of the country.

Responding to contemporary dynamics of development, key areas of research in CSS include marginal communities, migration, labour, land and credit markets, society and violence, culture and conflict, public health, environment and resources, governance, women and society, social justice and civil society. Addressing these themes, faculty members focus upon studies of tribal communities, Dalits and minority groups, rural transformation, social conflicts, movements and riots, urban society and development, urban and regional planning, literature and social consciousness, human resource development (education and health), environmental issues and social impact assessment of development projects. Theoretical contributions of CSS are well recognised in the fields of social stratification, agrarian relations, social movements, education, Dalit society, tribal society, and development practices. The focus of the Centre's research since its inception has also been to assist in policy formulations for issues on social development.

During the last five decades, CSS has completed 316 research studies sponsored by regional, national and international agencies. CSS so far published 166 books (81 in English, 59 in Gujarati, 17 translated books, 02 in Hindi, and 7 as part of Samaj Darshan series in Gujarati) in the research areas as mentioned above. Moreover, it has published 26 I.P. Desai Memorial Lectures, 23 occasional papers, 18 working papers, and 04 under the CSS @ 50 years lecture series. During the last four decades, faculty members at the CSS have published around 632 researched articles (English, Hindi and Gujarati) in internationally and nationally reputed journals and edited volumes.

Since 1981, the Centre has been publishing its Gujarati quarterly journal, Arthat. It is rated well among the academic fraternity in the region. This is further strengthened by the fact that scholars, activists, journalists and people from other walks of life have been contributing articles to the journal. Besides providing a platform to the regional intelligentsia to communicate and share their research with the academic world, the journal also fulfils and encourages the aspiration of students and teachers of the state who are eager to express their academic reflections through the regional language. Arthat has brought out nine special numbers based on critical issues of the time. These are on Reservation policy – in commemoration of Prof. I P Desai, Gujarat state silver Jubilee year, Women, Displacement due to large dams, Women Consciousness in literature, Gujarat earthquake, Society and Literature interface, Indian Diaspora and Hind Swaraj.

For the last five decades, CSS has been frequently conducting interactive courses in research methodology (15), application of computers in social sciences (25), capacity building (04) and writing skills (02) catering to the academic and professional needs of a large number of research scholars and teachers. So far, 1055 young researchers, college and university teachers have participated in these programmes. CSS has also been holding workshops on subjects addressing functionaries of the government and non-governmental organizations. Under its doctoral programme (since 1979), 14 scholars have completed their PhD.

Conferences, Seminars, Workshops and Colloquia are useful academic platforms for Scholars to meet, interact and present their work and thereby contribute towards the advancement of knowledge. CSS organises these events regularly. So far, around 107 international and national conferences, seminars and workshops and around 406 lectures under Colloquia have been organized. Under the ICSSR Guidance and Consultancy Scheme, the Centre's faculty members offer guidance to MPhil and PhD scholars in designing research, refining methodology and analyzing data. So far, 212 scholars have interacted with CSS faculty under this scheme. Faculty members are also often invited to deliver lectures at institutes and universities at regional, national and international levels. The Centre also undertakes collaborative studies with scholars from other Indian and foreign institutions.

In memory of its founder, CSS organizes I.P. Desai Memorial Lecture every year. So far, 28 lectures have been delivered by illustrious scholars from across social science disciplines, out of which 26 are available in print.

The major achievements of the CSS include its policy-related and social change-oriented research, its contribution to pedagogy (through publication and dissemination of this research and training programmes).

I. RESEARCH PROJECTS (ONGOING)

1. An Exploration into Nutritional Status of Tribal Communities in Gujarat

Food deprivation among tribes is disproportionately higher than in other population groups. Studies conducted on various tribes living in different parts of the country also suggest their food is nutritionally poor with low consumption of pulses, cereals, and vegetables than the recommended dietary allowances. Apparently the impoverished status of the tribal population continues irrespective of the economic development of the state.

Though studies point to poor nutritional status and low food consumption by tribes, they tend to see them as homogenous entities overlooking the cultural and material differences between various communities. The data thus conceal the situation of a more marginalized group within the community. Within this context, this study specifically looks at the nutritional status of four tribal communities namely Konkana, Gamit, Kotwalia and Kolgha belonging to major and primitive tribal groups of Gujarat. Data have been collected through canvassing a structured questionnaire at the household level from 12 villages in Valsad, Dang, and Tapi districts having a relatively higher concentration of such communities. These households were randomly selected. From each tribal community, information was collected from 100 households.

2. A Study of Food Security of the Tribals in Gujarat

Ensuring food security has been an issue of great importance in India. Despite being a country with substantial food grain production, we are still a nation with the highest number of malnourished children. Output indicators of food and nutrition seem to be very low for Scheduled tribes in India and particularly in Gujarat. Within this context, the present study aims to examine the extent, nature, and dimensions of food insecurity at the household level in the tribal belt of Gujarat. The specific objectives of the study are: (1) To review programs and policies adopted by India to achieve food and nutrition security? Mapping the coordination and contradictions between the state and central government, if any, during implementation of these programs. Are there any special provisions earmarked in the existing programs to ensure food security in the tribal region?; (2) To identify leakages and constraints created by interest groups in the process of distribution of food/food grains at the local level; (3) To estimate the contribution of government food security programs towards the households; (4) Examine the efforts made by the households to bridge the gap, if any, in order to attain food security; and (5) To make an assessment of who does what in order to bridge the gap between 'need and received'. Fieldwork will be started soon.

II. RESEARCH PROJECTS (INITIATED)

1. Corona Pandemic and the Surat Society: An Exploratory Study

This exploratory study is aimed to decipher what kinds of problems and difficulties different sections of the social order of Surat city had to encounter. It will also address the component of how various groups cope up with those difficulties. Apart from cross sections of people the research would also explore role of various government agencies as well as voluntary groups during pandemic. Being an exploratory study mainly qualitative methods, viz. long interviews, case study and focus group discussion will be applied. Materials from secondary sources will also be largely used. The study will be carried out with reference to Surat city of Gujarat, which is considered as an economic capital and business hub of Gujarat.

Project Director : Kiran Desai
Funding Agency : ICSSR, New Delhi.
Duration : 12 Months
Amount Sanctioned: Rs.4,00,000/-

2. Regional Literature and Historical Consciousness: The World of Phaniswarnath Renu

What is the relationship between a writer and his locale? What does this relationship tell us about the society and the region in which the writer lived and composed his literature? Framed around these two core questions, the proposed research is aimed at studying an imminent writer Phaniswarnath Renu (1921-1978) and the region of old Purnea district in north-eastern part of Bihar. The broad objective is to understand the interrelation between history, literature and society. Widely known for his innovative techniques and depicting subjectivities of a region, Renu is recognised, appreciated, and criticised for propagating a new genre in Hindi—'anchalik Sahitya' (regional literature). These subjectivities, an emphasis on social details and particularities of his region, and the author's bold subversive moves to make fun of the canonical language norms point us towards the complexities of space and literature in fresh ways. In the context of north India in general and the world of Hindi literature in particular, his prose redefined the terms of literary engagement with the landscape of the rural.

Away from treating literature in isolation from the social context that produces it (a dominant mode of engagement in literary criticism) or conceptualising literature as a mirror image of the society, this research perceives literature of Renu as an entry into the social and cultural life of the region. In this manner, his writings provide us an alternate archive of the rural life of the region. Bringing together methodological insights from social history, literature and anthropology, this study will undertake (a) fieldwork in Purnea district for understanding this linkage between literature and social-cultural dimensions.

Project Director : Sadan Jha
Funding Agency : ICSSR, New Delhi.
Duration : 12 Months
Amount Sanctioned: Rs.3,50,000/-

3. A Study on Assessing the Implementation of Social Security Initiatives for the Tribal Communities in Gujarat

At present around 38% tribals of Gujarat live below poverty line despite of implementing various government welfare schemes to uplift them since Independence. Due to historical development, geographical location and poor socio-economic conditions this group always remained lower bottom of development. Since last three decades the Government of Gujarat has initiated unique scheme called Van Bandhukalyan Yojana for overall development of tribals. Social security schemes are important schemes for those living below poverty line. The present study therefore is an attempt to understand and assess the implementation aspects of basic social security schemes for those tribals who live below poverty line and also to identify major roadblocks in implementation of these schemes and suggest policy intervention for better implementation. To assess an extent of coverage and quality of delivery of social security schemes for the poor tribals. Following schemes will be cover under this study (i) Indira Gandhi Old age Pension schemes, (ii) National family benefit scheme, (iii) Indira Gandhi National widow Pension Scheme and (iv) PMJAY-MA Yojana (Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana and Mukhya Mantri Amrutam Yojana).

4. Social Justice and Laws for the Tribes: Some Critical Issues with Reference to Tribals of Gujarat

Recently the Indian state has recognized the injustice done to tribals through enacting two important acts in favour of tribal communities i.e. Panchayat Extension to Scheduled Area Act (PESA)-1997 and Forest Right Act (FRA)-2006. The core idea behind enacting these acts were to improve the system of governance in tribal India and enhancing the livelihood of Adivasis dependent on natural resources has been an important focus for policy planners. In this context, proper implementation of the Panchayats (Extension to Scheduled Areas) Act, 1996 and Forest Rights Act, 2006 are paradigm shifts that can impact the tribal communities favourably. The proposed study is on and about implementation of two revolutionary Acts i.e. Panchayat Extension to Scheduled Area Act (PESA) 1996, and Forest Right Act (FRA) 2006, in the tribal districts of Gujarat. This study aims to critically assess the implementation aspects of these Acts and thereby identify major roadblocks in implementation these Acts and suggest policy intervention for better implementation.

5. Impact of Covid-19 on Migrant Workers: A Study from Surat

The pandemic induced nationwide lockdown was a major cause of joblessness among migrant workers in urban pockets. The production was at a standstill, machines were quiet and markets were closed. In spite of the government's appeal, many employers had either removed their workers, deducted salaries, or simply closed doors. The loss of jobs had made workers more and more unsecured and compelled them to leave for their native homes. This has led to a wide range of social and economic insecurities among them; unleashed uncertainties associated with their survival and sustenance in job markets, and eroded their capacity to negotiate with the present crisis. Even most of the migrant workers could not manage to arrange an alternative job or any productive economic activity in their native because of various reasons. Subsequently, they had to return to cities for their employment and income. Against this backdrop, this study will attempt to understand and examine the deplorable situation of the urban migrant labourers during and after the lockdown period by analyzing data collected from randomly picked 200 migrant workers from different areas in the city of Surat.

(d) Seminar/ Workshop/ Symposium (conducted by the Institute)

1. Symposium on Contextualizing Study of Indian Families Today.

An online symposium was organised on Contextualizing Study of Indian Families Today on 28.02.2022 on a volume titled The Contemporary Indian Family: Transitions and Diversity, edited by B. Devi Prasad, Sritatha Juvva & Mahima Nayar. Panellists included B. Devi Prasad, Tulsi Patel, Sigamani P., Lakshmi Narasimhan, and Kiran Desai.

CSS organized a virtual seminar on 'Contextualizing Study of Indian Families Today'. The aim of the seminar was to critically locate studying contemporary Indian families in teaching and research. The diversity that the family has assumed in form and functions underscores the need for an intersectional lens. The intersectional lens provides us with a critical understanding to examine, analyse and study families both from a theoretical perspective and within the realm of a range of family interventions. The discussion was based on the editorial volume 'The Contemporary Indian Family: Transitions and Diversity' jointly edited by Prof. B. Devi Prasad, Prof. Srilatha Juvva, and Dr. Mahima Nayar, published in 2020. The seminar concentrated on disseminating information about the diversities and challenges of contemporary Indian families to a wider audience. The panel presentations were followed by a rich and active question and answer session. There was a lively and productive discussion between the academicians on the topic. More than 75 participants including professors, scholars, and students across India took part in this active seminar.
